

Isn't that big enough for all of us?

Minnesota's new immigrants. They've come here from cities, towns and villages a world away—leaving entire lifetimes behind in order to start over again. Some have survived terrible conditions and events we'll never have to face. And still, they come here with such hopes. Despite the difficulties of having to learn a new language and accept new customs, they come here to come home. But many of us ordinarily nice Minnesotans aren't very welcoming. We need to ask ourselves this: Isn't there enough space in this state—and room in our hearts—for these new Minnesotans, who may be much more like us than we imagine? Learn more about them. Call us at 612-672-3869 and we'll send you our free booklet Immigration in Minnesota.

Minnesota, nice or not?
