Dear friends,

Thank you! As The Minneapolis Foundation comes to the end of its first century, I am truly humbled by the great work and investments by so many Minnesotans to make this community the best it can be – yesterday, today and tomorrow.

The theme for this year’s annual report is “Recipes for Community Success.” For nearly 100 years, the Foundation has been bringing people together – the true “ingredients” in our work - to expand the culture of generosity and improve the quality of life for all. We’re a Community Foundation, which means we connect people, ideas and resources to improve the lives of everyone in the community. Community Foundations exist because people want to enhance the health of their community – and last year, thousands of Minnesotans did just that through their investments with The Minneapolis Foundation.

Through relationships with our donors and community partners, we have been able to move forward on creating a more equitable community and truly building “One Minneapolis.” To do that we’ve focused on:

- Sustaining our robust and diverse arts community,
- Providing job training, social services and stable housing,
- Preserving the rich natural environment we all enjoy,
- Preparing children for school and life success, and
- Encouraging more of our residents to become civically engaged.

The Foundation is more than just a grantmaker. We also convene, collaborate, partner, invest and advocate – that’s how we make a donor’s giving go further! By blending and leveraging all these different elements, we believe we have a recipe that will continue to enhance the health and vitality of our community. And that truly is our competitive difference – the way we provide value for those who elect to partner with us.

Theodore Roosevelt once said, “The best prize life has to offer is the chance to work hard at work worth doing.” That’s a message that is reflected in the efforts of everyone at the Foundation. We understand that the work we do has purpose: it affects the lives of many of our residents today, and arguably generations of individuals and families to follow. I invite you to review our work over the past year and hope you will consider joining us as we lay the groundwork for the next 100 years of supporting this community.

Thank you for being our partner in this work. Together, we can achieve tremendous results and cook up a winning recipe for community success!

Warmly,

Sandra Vargas, CEO & President
A COMMUNITY FOUNDATION connects people, ideas and resources to improve the lives of all. We exist because community members want to and are willing to make an investment in the health of our community.

Last year, the Foundation and its donors gave $46.6 million in grants to nonprofits locally and across the globe.

Every month, The Minneapolis Foundation invests a quarter million dollars to support environmental causes.

We donated more than $12 million last year to support education, in Minnesota and beyond.

The Minneapolis Foundation is the 2nd largest funder of the arts in Minnesota.

The Foundation administers more than 1,200 charitable funds.
Our Vision
Greater Minneapolis is vibrant, inclusive, and positioned to thrive locally and compete globally.

Our 6 Focus Areas

The Foundation helps expand the culture of generosity in the community – creating a platform where a donor’s giving goes further.

We manage more than $735 million in assets and last year posted investment returns of 20.6% for endowed assets.

Founded in 1915, The Minneapolis Foundation is the 2nd oldest Community Foundation in the country.
A Pinch of Sun with a side of Adventure Sets the Table for Developing Confident Girls.
With a home in Big Sky, Montana, Janet Rice and her husband Peter Bachman spend much of the year soaking up the wilderness. Their appetite for the outdoors is reflected in their giving.

“I love the outdoors, I appreciate cultural differences, and I wanted to create an opportunity for girls who wouldn’t otherwise experience Yellowstone,” Janet explained.

To that end, Janet cooked up a recipe that mixed her passion for the outdoors and immigrant services with a dash of adventure by giving a grant to Wilderness Inquiry to send a dozen Somali girls to Yellowstone National Park. Janet invited her friend Ed Bazinet (a fellow Foundation donor) and his family to help seed the effort, and Wilderness Inquiry partnered with the Somali-led nonprofit Ka Joog for the trip, which is now an annual affair. The girls spend a week camping and exploring in Yellowstone National Park and do everything from outdoor cooking to paddling voyageur canoes.

For Janet, summer camp isn’t just about the adventure. She believes it’s also a great way to help girls build confidence and flex their survival skills.

“You realize you don’t need guys to do this stuff and it's powerful,” Janet said, reflecting on her first great outdoors experience. But she knows it’s not easy for some families to send a child to camp. Many youth from low-income, immigrant households never leave the city, let alone the state. Giving young people stimulating activities during the summer months is also an effective way to reduce the impact of the “summer slide” when kids fall behind academically and helps close the academic achievement gap.

“Yellowstone is a real treasure. I’m glad the ‘new kids on the block’ get to experience this magical place and stay engaged in learning at the same time,” Janet said.
The issue of an educational achievement gap has reached the boiling point in Minneapolis. In response, The Minneapolis Foundation and a host of community organizations launched “Let’s RESET Education,” a public awareness campaign focused on closing the achievement gap and promoting strategies for creating schools where every student succeeds.

Where are we failing our students? Sixty-one percent of white fifth graders in Minneapolis are proficient in math, compared with 12 percent of African American fifth graders. And 87 percent of white third graders are proficient in reading, compared with 36 percent of Latino third graders.

“The achievement gap has both a moral and an economic dimension. We need to educate all of our children,” said Sandra Vargas, president of The Minneapolis Foundation. “If we fail to educate all of our children, our economy will be less competitive, businesses will have a harder time finding qualified workers and our community will suffer.”

RESET is an acronym for five proven strategies for creating K-12 schools where every child succeeds. The public awareness campaign launched by the Foundation used multiple channels to promote these strategies and encourage others to “join us in the kitchen.” For example, thousands of people viewed a public service announcement in movie theaters, on television and online. Hundreds of others attended a Minnesota Meeting event series featuring John Legend, Dr. Steve Perry and Mayme Hostetter, as well as many local experts and educators. After attending one of the programs, participants said: “As a Black parent, it was soul–edifying to hear someone speak the truth....” Another said, “Amazing RESET program last night...just the straight goods on what ‘opportunity gap’-changing instruction looks like.”
Civic Engagement: The Bread and Butter of Healthy Communities
Creating a pipeline of leaders of color who are shaping our city today and tomorrow requires a well-stocked cupboard of strategies. The Foundation’s donor advisors and the Community Impact team mix a number of ingredients to ensure all community members are heard on the issues that affect their lives.

Here are a few of the dishes currently on the menu:

Hope Community, a local housing developer in the Phillips neighborhood, is a popular program among donors. The organization’s housing successes are widely known. Hope is building community with more than bricks and mortar. Their innovative leadership development program, SPEAC (Sustainable Power for Engaging Active Citizens), empowers its diverse participants to act on behalf of themselves and others in the community. In 2013, Hope received funding from The Minneapolis Foundation for the SPEAC program that is part organizing and part activism. The eight-month program focuses on learning about power, asset mapping, racial justice, democracy and citizenship. Its graduates go on to work in positions of leadership throughout the city on issues of workforce development, parks, civil rights, arts, housing and more.

Nexus Community Partners has launched the Boards and Commissions Leadership Institute (BCLI) to address the leadership gap in our community by preparing leaders of color to influence local politics in meaningful ways. After completing the seven-month program, BCLI graduates have already been appointed to local commissions. BCLI is modeled after a program that was developed in the San Francisco Bay Area over the last five years. In that time, 99% of the graduates have been successfully appointed to boards and commissions.

The Foundation also partnered with the Roy Wilkins Center at the Humphrey School of Public Affairs to develop the Roy Wilkins Public Policy Fellowship, a week-long intensive workshop that brought together a select cohort of leaders of color to learn policy analysis and methods of assessing impact. Dr. Samuel Myers, professor at the Humphrey School of Public Affairs, presented a rigorous curriculum that paired theory with practical application. The experience strengthened the capacity of this cohort of community experts who are now better equipped to use analytical tools to shape and inform public policies.

By investing in leaders for the 21st century, the Foundation serves up a healthy plate of civic leadership development. And we do it from soup to nuts…. by strategically identifying and cultivating new voices and further equipping those who are ready to increase their influence. It’s a recipe for the success of our whole community.
While many people suspended donations to the Minnesota Orchestra during the 15-month lockout, Paula DeCosse found another way to lend her support.

The self-declared “amateur” musician proved to be a seasoned leader as she helped build Orchestrate Excellence, a citizens group devoted to supporting the Orchestra’s financial health and artistic quality.

“My husband and I are longtime supporters of the Orchestra and the musicians are our heroes – we couldn’t just sit back as the organization faced such controversy and strife,” Paula explained.
Without skipping a beat, she became a full-time organizer just as things appeared to be crumbling. She wrote Op-Eds, helped organize community events with hundreds of participants and tried to coax involved parties toward reconciliation. She was also thinking beyond the lockout.

“We need to make the Orchestra more accessible and collaborative for it to thrive,” she said. And Orchestrate Excellence is now working in tandem with Board members, musicians, staff and other community groups to ensure that this 110-year-old cultural icon remains relevant and financially secure in a fast-changing world. “With a new leadership team and enthusiastic community engagement, the Minnesota Orchestra now has an opportunity to reach out to a younger and more diverse audience and to create a model for musical organizations around the country facing the same challenges,” she added.

After stewing over a lot of these ideas during and after the lockout, Paula and her co-organizers are helping to cook up a new, more broadly-based Minnesota Orchestra.
The Main Dish:
Economic Vitality with the Vikings Stadium
After the Legislature approved a billion-dollar sports facility for the Vikings Stadium, The Minneapolis Foundation explored ways to make sure more local business owners could take advantage of the economic opportunities from this project.

The Foundation’s Working Capital Loan Fund was created to eliminate the single largest barrier to minority-owned construction contractors: access to working capital.

Donors Ed and Judy Cannon invested a portion of their donor-advised funds in this “economic development casserole,” which provides working capital to minority-owned businesses so they can participate in the construction process.

“Small business support and local issues are important to us, which the Foundation understands. They are creative and proactive in helping the community and invited us to participate in this fund,” Ed said.

“We started our own company years ago and we know what it’s like to be a small business and the struggle it can be to get financing and the necessary bonds to participate in projects like this,” he recalled.

The Working Capital Loan Fund is a $1 million loan made to the Metropolitan Economic Development Association. The loan takes a reuse-and-recycle approach and may revolve four times annually, as businesses repay and the funds are re-loaned.

“Contributing to this Fund helps level the playing field, so it would be rewarding if it helped jumpstart a few jobs for these minority-owned businesses,” Judy explained.

“Like the Foundation, we’re always thinking about equity. The Vikings Stadium project can be a springboard for a lot of businesses and create opportunities for people to get in the game. One that lasts a lot longer than 60 minutes,” Ed added.

A Community Foundation reflects the diversity of interests and passions of its donors. Donors at The Minneapolis Foundation can select from a variety of fund types to turn their charitable dreams into reality. Through these funds, the Foundation is proud to support the generous individuals who are responding to the community needs of today and tomorrow.

Supporting Organizations:
A tax-wise alternative to a private foundation, supporting organizations enable donors to hire staff and convene a Board. They are less restrictive than private foundations, with The Minneapolis Foundation handling all administrative oversight, including IRS-mandated tax returns and annual audits.

Supporting organizations are individual 501(c)(3) public charities under Section 509(a)(3) of the tax code. Although they have their own tax ID number and donations receive the maximum level of tax deductions (as with a donor-advised fund), each supporting organization is covered under the umbrella of the community foundation and its grants and activities must fulfill and support the charitable purposes of The Minneapolis Foundation.

Supporting Organizations should be at least $5 million, as set up can be lengthy and legal fees may exceed several thousand dollars.
Signature Funds:
For individuals, families and businesses considering a charitable foundation of $1 million or more, Signature Funds combine the name recognition of a private foundation with the privacy, flexibility and tax advantages of a donor-advised fund.

Signature Funds carry many of the attractive features of a private foundation, including “Foundation” name recognition, customized reporting and grant correspondence. Multi-generational philanthropy is a core tenant of a Signature Fund and is supported by the vast resources of The Minneapolis Foundation.

Donor-Advised Funds:
Donor-Advised Funds are established by individuals, families, foundations or businesses that choose to be actively involved in the grantmaking process. Tax benefits occur at the time these funds are established, but there are no IRS regulations about when dollars need to be distributed to support the organizations of your choice. This is an important offering for any number of donors – those who would benefit from this option include: people with a liquidity or tax issue that makes gifting necessary but perhaps don’t want to donate the full amount at that time; individuals who want to do due diligence before selecting charitable recipients; donors who want to involve other family members in decision making; folks who wish to make their gifts anonymously (as your name will not appear on the Foundation’s tax return). Donors with a range of community interests find these funds to be an ideal tool for conveniently fulfilling charitable wishes.

Legacy Funds:
These permanently endowed funds have been created by living donors as well as through estate gifts. You may create your own fund or make a gift that will be pooled with those of other generous donors to achieve a greater impact. Legacy Funds are invested for the long term, with annual distributions to organizations working within 12 specific areas of interest. Legacy Funds make it easy to support the causes you care about, well beyond your lifetime.

Field of Interest Funds:
If you like the Legacy Fund concept, but your interests lie outside the Minneapolis Foundations’ 12 Legacy Fund domains, a Field of Interest Fund may be for you.

Field of Interest fund donors have chosen one or more focal points for their giving. (This can be stated as broadly as “health” or as narrowly as “pre-natal nutrition for mothers in greater Minneapolis who do not qualify for other financial support programs.”) The grant-making decisions for these endowed funds are carried out over long periods of time by The Minneapolis Foundation (within the defined guidelines) to the then-relevant organization engaged in the focus area established by the donor.

Designated Beneficiary Funds:
Designated Beneficiary Funds are endowed funds established by donors to support one or more specific nonprofit organizations in perpetuity. These are commonly established through an estate plan as a way to continue providing annual financial support to the organizations you supported during your lifetime.
Scholarship Funds:
Scholarship Funds are often created in honor or memory of a loved one, and provide financial support to deserving students. Scholarships can be established to support graduates of, or those attending, a particular school. To endow a scholarship, the initial minimum funding is $125,000.

Community Action Funds:
Over time, generous donors have left gifts directly to The Minneapolis Foundation to use in addressing community needs. These gifts have created an endowment that provides resources annually to help improve the quality of life for everyone in our community, in accordance with priorities established by the Foundation’s Board of Trustees.

In addition to grantmaking, the resources are also invested in a variety of strategies, including advocacy, public awareness, convening and other tactics designed to achieve specific community outcomes. Through our Community Grantmaking program, nonprofits apply through a competitive process for funding to help achieve specific community results.

Current focus areas are:
- Education - All students on track for college and career.
- Civic Engagement - All communities participate in our democracy and in public decision making.
- Economic Vitality - A competitive and inclusive workforce.

Specific Purpose Funds:
A Specific Purpose Fund is a charitable fund created by The Minneapolis Foundation to receive and distribute assets for a specific charitable purpose. Funds are typically created on behalf of groups or organizations that have not yet been designated as 501(c)(3) exempt organizations, or for charitable projects that have a limited term. Specific Purpose Funds usually receive contributions from a broad cross-section of the community. While not technically the same, a specific purpose fund in many cases is an alternative to what is typically referred to as a “fiscal sponsorship” arrangement.

Charitable Remainder Trusts:
A Charitable Remainder Trust allows a donor to irrevocably transfer assets into a trust. The trust pays income to the donor or other beneficiaries during their lifetimes, and the remainder goes to a qualified nonprofit.

Charitable Lead Trusts:
A Charitable Lead Trust allows a donor to irrevocably transfer assets into a trust. The trust provides for payment to one or more charities during a fixed term of years and then, after the term expires, the balance of the trust assets must be distributed to one or more individual beneficiaries.
Charitable Gift Annuities:
Charitable Gift Annuities (CGAs) are a simple agreement whereby The Minneapolis Foundation accepts a gift of cash, securities or property and agrees to pay a specified, fixed-dollar amount to the annuitant (the donor or another beneficiary). The fixed amount is set by the American Council on Gift Annuities and is based on the annuitant’s age. Because the gift is irrevocable, The Minneapolis Foundation maintains control of the gift and becomes responsible for paying income for the lifetime of each annuitant.

Retained Life Estates:
A Retained Life Estate is a gift defined by federal tax law allowing the donation of a personal residence or vacation home or farm with the donor retaining the right to continue to live in the property. A life estate may be retained for one or more lives or it may be retained for a term of years.

Community Builders:
Donors who understand the importance of a permanent community endowment have entrusted The Minneapolis Foundation to carefully manage and distribute their charitable fund for generations. Community Builders provide the Foundation with a way to recognize and honor individuals who gift a fund at The Minneapolis Foundation through their wills, qualified retirement plans, life insurance policies, annuities or trusts.
